About This Game

Steam-powered mechs meet forbidden sorcery! Inspired by Sherlock Holmes, Dracula, Jekyll & Hyde, and Jack the Ripper, "A Study in Steampunk: Choice by Gaslight" is an epic 277,000-word interactive mystery novel by Heather Albano, co-author of "Choice of BroadSides," "Choice of Zombies," and "Choice of Romance: Affairs of the Court." Your choices control the story. It's entirely text-based--without graphics or sound effects--and fueled by the vast, unstoppable power of your imagination.

The game is afoot! In a world of gaslit streets, mysteriously long-lived foreign nobles, and master criminals, will you defend your Empire from spies or overthrow it from within? Advocate science and reason or learn forbidden magic? Romance men, women, both, or neither? End as a healer, a freedom fighter, a vigilante, or a traitor?

The Fate Of the Empire Is In Your hands!

- Solve mysteries, hunt criminals, and match wits with enemy spies.
- Defend your homeland from the machinations of a master criminal and the conspiracies of the evil Vlaski Empire.
- Search for the truth about the sorcerers that reigned before the age of steam.
- Build deep friendships, acquire powerful enemies, and perhaps even find true love.

- Explore all the dark corners of a gaslit, fog-shrouded city...and unearth all its secrets.

"Two men were seen leaving the building at a run just as it exploded behind them," Woodward says. "We caught one; he's unconscious in hospital. I need you to find the other."

Where do you start?

- ☒ I look at the scene of the explosion.
- ☐ I talk with the factory owner, Mr. Merrill.
- ☐ I interview the men who reported seeing the saboteurs flee the scene.
- ☐ I visit the hospital for a look at the first saboteur.

You emerge from the alleyway maze to a street where gaslight provides a little illumination—and at once spot Finch, partway down the street, back turned to you, moving with his usual catlike grace and listening hard with his head tilted.

And behind him, a larger, bulkier form looms. Gaslight gleams off the pistol the foreign spy is pointing at Finch's back.

You have only an instant. What do you do?

- ☒ I draw the enemy's attention to myself and away from Finch.
- ☐ I raise my own revolver and drop him where he stands before he can fire.
- ☐ I scoop up a convenient chunk of brick and throw it hard. If I can smash the glass of the building opposite, the enemy may be distracted—and will not be reflexively firing at my position.

Absolutely fantastic. Top-notch writing, great array of choices (or at least well-concealed illusions of choice), and a strong sense of immersion. Time very well spent.
